

YOU ARE HERE:

my front door

See

This is our front door.

It looks very grand but you are always welcome to come inside and have a nose around.

There's a sign outside that says 'EVERYTHING IS GOING TO BE ALRIGHT', by an artist called Martin Creed.

Imagine

The Gallery has lost its key.

Somewhere in your house is a key. It's a magic key. It's disguised as something ordinary, like a spoon or a shoe. Use your imagination.

You need to find the key to open the door. Look carefully, a battery could be a key, or a toothbrush, or your little toe... Once you have found it, you are ready to open the door.

Make

Use anything you can find around your house make your own door and imagine what could be behind it. It's a bit magic... when you open your door, you can see into the future...

What do you think the future looks like, feels like, smells like and tastes like?!

Share

How can you share your door and your portal to the future?

Can you pin it to your front door, for others to see? Or post it through a pal's letterbox?

Why not make a few doors and create your own street of the future!

Take pART

Join us on Saturday 25th July, 11am on the National Galleries Scotland Facebook page for a live storytelling adventure, inspired by what's behind the door...

Supported by players of

Awarded funds from

